this book provides an analysis of south african urban change over the past three decades it draws on a seminal text homes apart and revisits conclusions drawn in that collection that marked the final phases of urban apartheid it highlights changes in demography social as well as economic structure and their differential spatial expression across a range of urban sites in south africa the evidence presented in this book points to a very complex set of narratives in urban south africa and one that cannot be reduced to a singular statement so the conclusions of the various investigations are in many ways open as urban apartheid represented one clear outcome its post apartheid urban legacies varies greatly from city to city as such this book is a great resource to students and academics focused on urban change in south african cities since the demise of apartheid and scholars of urban policy making in south africa and southern urbanists generally south africa s urban population is set to double by the year 2010 this critical analysis of apartheid s legacy to the cities proposes a number of strategies that might prevent the transition to a multiracial society from ending in disaster by considering the distinctiveness of the inter war years as a discrete period of colonial change this book addresses several larger issues such as tracing the origins of decolonization in the rise of colonial nationalism and a re assessment of the impact of inter war colonial rebellions in africa syria and indochina the book also connects french theories of colonial governance to the lived experience of colonial rule in a period scarred by war and economic dislocation urban peacebuilding in divided societies explores the effects of urban policy and planning in the management of ethnic conflict in strife torn societies focusing on the cases of belfast and johannesburg it combines perspectives from urban geography political science social psychology and urban planning to study the relationship between ethnic ideologies and the urban strategies that affect ethnic territoriality in the form of urban land use housing economic development services and citizen involvement the book contrasts belfast embedded within an uncertain shift from conflict to political settlement with johannesburg engaged in post resolution reconciliation to analyze along different points of societal transition the contributions of urban policymaking to peacemaking and peacebuilding it describes the differing rolesobstructive or facilitativethat contested cities can play amidst broader peacemaking efforts consistent with bollens contention that there are lessons in urban peacebuilding for constructing mutually tolerable living environments at the regional and national levels effectively cities and urban policies are the locus for operationalizing national ideologies of ethnic coexistence urban peacebuilding in divided societies explores the effects of urban policy and planning in the management of ethnic conflict in strife torn societies focusing on the cases of belfast and johannesburg it combines perspectives from urban geography political science social psychology and urban planning to study the relationship between ethnic ideologies and the urban strategies that affect ethnic territoriality in the form of urban land use housing economic development services and citizen involvement the book contrasts belfast embedded within an uncertain shift from conflict to political settlement with johannesburg engaged in post resolution reconciliation to analyze along different points of societal transition the contributions of urban policymaking to peacemaking and peacebuilding it describes the differing rolesobstructive or facilitativethat contested cities can play amidst broader peacemaking efforts consistent with bollens contention that there are lessons in urban peacebuilding for constructing mutually tolerable living environments at the regional and national levels effectively cities and urban policies are the locus for operationalizing national ideologies of ethnic coexistence

this book examines the formation of urban neighbourhoods in the middle east africa and south asia it departs from neighbourhoods to consider identity coexistence solidarity and violence in relations to a place urban neighbourhood formations revolves around three major aspects of making and unmaking of neighbourhoods spatial and temporal boundaries of neighbourhoods neighbourhoods as imagined and narrated entities and neighbourhood as social relations with extensive case studies from johannesburg to istanbul and from jerusalem to delhi this volume shows how spatial amenities immaterial processes of narrating and dreaming and the lasting effect of intimacies and violence in a neighbourhood are intertwined and negotiated over time in the construction of moral orders urban practices and political identities at large this book offers insights into neighbourhood formations in an age of constant mobility and helps us understand the grassroots level dynamics of xenophobia and hostility as much as welcoming and openness it would be of interest for both academics and more general audiences as well as for students of undergraduate and postgraduate courses in urban studies and anthropology

the book considers urban mobilities and immobilities in the global south through an exploration of the theoretical and methodological entry points that can be used to further the agenda of transport planning transport system improvements can and do have complex and unequal impacts on different sectors of society conventional approaches to analysing travel demand and transport system performance developed in the global north are typically ill equipped to identify and understand the complexities and inequities in urban areas of the global south using case studies from urban africa and asia the book addresses the need to understand the lived world of mobilities and use this knowledge to address issues that are central to our urban existence in the 21st century along with globalization urban transitions have been central in the southward shift in economic power towards the newly emerging economies as this book shows however these transitions have not been painless and it is important for the rest of the urbanizing world to learn from the mistakes it examines the role of urbanization and urban growth in the emerging economies taking the brics countries brazil russia india china and south africa as case studies their different approaches towards urbanization have shaped their historical development paths and assisted or constrained their futures several of the brics bear heavy burdens from past failures to accommodate urban growth inclusively and efficiently and many other urbanizing countries in asia and africa are in danger of replicating their mistakes the overriding lesson of the book is that cities and nations must anticipate urbanization and accommodate urban growth pro actively so as not to be left with an enduring legacy of inequalities and lost opportunities this book is aimed at students and researchers in urban studies and development studies it will also be of interest to policy advisors concerned with urbanization and the role of cities in a country s development the handbook of urban segregation scrutinises key debates on spatial inequality in cities across the globe it engages with multiple domains including residential places public spaces and the field of education in addition it tackles crucial group dimensions across race class and culture as well as age groups the urban rich middle class and gentrified households this timely handbook provides a key contribution to understanding what urban segregation is about why it has developed what its consequences are and how it is measured conceptualised and framed this book embraces south africa and its place in the global south providing a succinct theoretical and empirical analysis and discussion of urban issues in the country there have been sporadic calls from the urban geography community for the development of an overarching and comprehensive text that explores contemporary processes and practices taking place in urban south africa and more widely the global south this is an edited collection of chapters by leading urban theorists and practitioners working on various themes within urban south africa and serves as a base for scholars and students interested in urban perspectives from countries in the global south three components per entry definition see also and significance offer thorough reference to some 600 terms pertinent to urban politics and those involved a suggested reading list is also included for most terms the more controversial and complicated entries not the self evident ones well written and with an extensive bibliography and maps of the urban areas the volume is an essential source for understanding south africa s urban future as well as for documenting the legacy of apartheid on south african urbanization choice an illuminating look at one of the twentieth century s most ignominious failures in social engineering journal of interdisciplinary historythis book examines the legacy of apartheid in nine of south africa s major cities including cape town port elizabeth johannesburg and pretoria the factors that have influenced their distinctive development and the possible direction and patterns of urban change in a post apartheid society apartheid as legislated racial separation substantially changed the south african urban scene race group areas remodelled the cities while the creation of homelands mini states and the pass laws controlling population migration constrained urbanization itself in the mid 1980s the old system having proved economically inefficient and politically divisive was replaced by a new policy of orderly urbanization this sought to accelerate industrialization and cultural change by relaxing the constraints on urbanization imposed by state planning the result was further political instability and a quarter of the black or african population housed in shanty towns negotiations between the nationalist government and the african national congress are working towards the end of the old apartheid system yet the negation of apartheid is only the beginning of the creation of a new society the vested interests and entrenched ideologies behind the existing pattern of property ownership survive the abolition of apartheid laws beyond race class and ethnicity will continue to divide urban life if the cities of south africa are to serve all the people the accelerating process of urbanization must be brought under control and harnessed to a new purpose the contributors to this volume draw on a broad range of experience and disciplines to present a variety of perspectives on urban south africa
